ABOUT ME

3rd-year Industrial Design student at Avantika University, specializing in product design. I've translated academic concept work into real-world practice through an internship at Jaggery, contributing to material research, product development, prototyping, and product photography for a live product range. Passionate about products that balance aesthetics, ergonomics, manufacturability, and sustainability.

EXPERIENCE

Industrial Design Intern — Jaggery (Reimagining Waste) May – Jul 2026

- Conducted sustainable material research for automotive applications in India.
- Designed and developed concepts for the AFKD bag range, carrying pieces from sketch through material studies to finished prototypes.
- Assisted in ongoing prototyping and mock-up creation across multiple product lines.
- Planned and executed product photoshoots for the Landed and Be Seen collections; performed photo editing and retouching.
- Prepared product documentation and line sheets for website and client presentations.

PROJECTS

SAMAY — Heritage-Inspired Desk Clock 2026

- Designed a contemporary desk clock inspired by Indian heritage, integrating Jaali patterns, Shankha-inspired forms, and the symbolism of a snail to reinterpret the experience of time.
- Explored wood and brass through physical prototyping, refining form, material interaction, and light-and-shadow effects.

NIMI — Heritage-Inspired Wristwatch 2026

- Designed a contemporary wristwatch translating SAMAY's exploration of time and heritage into a wearable form, combining a minimal dial with Jaali-inspired detailing.
- Explored concentric geometry, metallic finishes, and intricate strap detailing to balance visual simplicity with craftsmanship.

Monotick — Minimal Timepiece Concept 2026
